Free fall worksheets for pre- k

Today I'm sharing a free Fall Pre-K/K Pack with over 15 hands-on activities! * This post contains affiliate links. Activities in this package mainly on reading skills; such as emerging reader, letter sounds, basic view words, print awareness, rhyming, identification of syllables, colorful words, and fine motor skills. You will also find several mathematical activities that strengthen the numbers 1-20, counting, 1:1 correspondence and initial addition. Activities are similar to those I use when reading the alphabet. Students in first grade can also enjoy some of the activities, especially if they are struggling with reading. (Find free download links at the end of this post.) 6 Fantastic Fall Read Aloud These 6 read aloud texts would go well with this our pack! These book designs work well for younger children. Download this package below; Part 1 Part 2 Find more PRE-K/K packages HERE! Follow this reading Mama's Board Fall Theme on Pinterest. Posted on September 10, 2020 by Cassie This is a great package for autumn. It has so many fun topics such as scarecrows, pumpkins, apples and leaves. All this with a combination of activities that cover a wide range of skills. I love it when thematic packages match books. This package goes with There was an old lady book series. We love these books. We use this package with there was an old lady who swallowed some leaves!. These fall printables are to be used with children from 2 to 8 years old. These printables were made to go to the books: There was an old lady who swallowed some leaves! and Apple Pie. The package includes new hands-on learning and no-prep printables that work for different ages. You have Tot, Kindergarten, PreK, Kindergarten and first class activities in the kit. It also works great for children at different levels of learning. Items to use with Fall Pack and Fall Tot Pack One of the questions I've asked most often is what I need to have to use with this pack. And here's a big list of items you'll need. Each of these items facilitates the preparation and use of packaging. Additionally, as you browse the post you can see some of the ways these items are being used. How to use several pages from Fall Pack There are a lot of pages in this package and I wanted to highlight a few pages in it and show some ways to use them. You can find this page in the full description of the package later on the page. Most of my thematic packages have pre-critical pages in them. Varies from 1 to 2 pages. Here is an example of one of the previous pages. We like to use the colors of the season to track them. There are several puzzles in the package. You have 4 pieces of puzzle that you can see in the example below. Like a 10 piece puzzle. The Tot Pack has 2 piece puzzles for smaller kids to use. I recommend printing the puzzle on a white cardboard and laminating to help them last longer. One fun print in this set is a leafy path or maze. Children can have fun on the leaves. These types of so that we can reuse them. There are several types of mathematics and counting mats in the set. You can see how to use the counting pad below. The package comes with sheets that you can print, but we like to use acrylic sheets on mats. The package contains several pages for writing, tracing, and spelling. One fun side is deciphering the word. You can use abc stamps, writing letters or use dooling letters like we did before to make the page repeatedly. One of the pages of the Tot Pack make a cute colorful learning book. You have the option of apples or leaves for this. You can see a sheet of the book below. These are just some of the 170+ pages in the pack and tot pack. I hope you like using them as much as we do. All are black and white for your preschooler or nursery to color however they would like. The harvest counting workbook allows children to work on their counting and direction according to skills. They will be tasked with coloring each of the four items of a certain color, and then counting how much is from each. Turning counting into fun activities like this makes it easier to focus and really understand those early math skills! Following different patterns can be very useful for the development of fine motor skills. Children in kindergarten, pre k, and kindergarten need to build those hand muscles to help in their writing later. This Leaf Tracing sheet has four rows with different patterns to help them do just that! Another big part of working around topics with your children is the opportunity for further learning. This worksheet may offer a starting point to discuss why leaves fall from trees every year! This one's a little goofy, but I think you're going to like it! Preschoolers and kindergarteners will be happy to follow this maze. And you will love the problem solving skills that they are working on in the process! Set to a silly squirrel theme, it will be a lot of fun for your kids to work with. One of the best things we can do for our preschool, pre k, and kindergarten aged kids is to change things up. They need frequent repetitions to master the skills they are working on, but they also need to stay interested! Using fun fall themed worksheets like these, and many other options that you can find throughout this page, are the perfect way to encourage love and curiosity for learning.
